and George A. Riley, and any other oral or documentary evidence that may be presented at or prior to the hearing on the application.

MEMORANDUM OF POINTS AND AUTHORITIES

As set forth in Apple's original ex parte application, good cause exists for immediate discovery to identify the proper defendant or defendants in this action. That person (alone or in concert with others) has misappropriated Apple's trade secrets regarding future product information, and those trade secrets have appeared on three websites: Powerpage.org, Appleinsider.com, and Thinksecret.com. (Declaration of R. Zonic ("Zonic Decl.") ¶¶ 12-17.) Apple's internal investigations have, to date, failed to uncover the identity of any defendant. (Id. ¶ 18.)

Apple seeks document discovery from those three websites in an effort to identify the person or persons who have misappropriated Apple's trade secrets and to serve them with the Complaint. The proposed discovery to the three sites is very similar, although it is tailored to the specific information posted at those sites and the individuals who appear to have been involved with those postings.

Discovery To Powerpage.org

Information regarding the Apple trade secrets at issue first appeared on Powerpage.org. (Zonic Decl. ¶ 12.) Postings regarding that trade secret future product appeared on Powerpage.org on November 19, 22, 23, and 26, 2004. (Id. ¶¶ 12-14.) Apple seeks leave to subpoena documents from Powerpage.org that will show the source of the trade secret information. These requested documents include materials – documents, images, and communications – that relate to the future product. The exact language of the request, redacting only the trade secret information identifying the product, is as follows:

All documents relating to any information posted on Powerpage.com (the "Website") relating to an unreleased Apple product [REDACTED] (the "Product"), including postings that appeared on the Website on November 19, 2004, November 22, 2004, November 23, 2004, and November 26, 2004. These documents include:

Discovery To Appleinsider.com

Information regarding the Apple trade secrets at issue also appeared on Appleinsider.com on November 23, 2004. (Zonic Decl. ¶ 15.) As with Powerpage.org, Apple seeks leave to subpoen documents from Appleinsider.com that will show the source of the trade secret information. These requested documents include materials – documents, images, and communications – that relate to the future product. The exact language of the request, redacting only the trade secret information identifying the product, is as follows:

All documents relating to any information posted on Appleinsider.com (the "Website") relating to an unreleased Apple product [REDACTED] ("the Product"), including postings that appeared on the Website on November 23, 2004. These documents include:

- (b) All communications relating to the Product.
- (c) All documents relating to the Product.
- (c) All images, including photographs, sketches, schematics and renderings that appeared on the Website, relating to the Product.

Apple also seeks leave to subpoena documents from Appleinsider.com that will identify individuals who may have knowledge regarding the source of the misappropriated trade secrets. These persons include two specific individuals who were credited on Appleinsider.com as creating the text or images regarding Apple's future product: "Kasper Jade" and "Paul Scates." (See Zonic Decl. ¶ 15, Ex. C.) As with the request to Powerpage.org, Apple seeks this information because: (i) one or more of these persons
