Hi! There appears to be some delay in the delivery date for the Red Wolf system [redacted] Is there any way to accelerate the delivery? If not, what are our options so we do not have to move the existing equipment and face serious down time?

In response to our phone discussions about the e-mail from [redacted] concerning the move of [redacted] here are the points I would like to make.

[redacted]

3. We were originally under the impression that the new REDWOLF system would be here to install in November or December. We have now found out that it will not be ready until March '05. I would suggest, that if Facilities Management Unit will permit, we not take the old system and [redacted] suggest we wait until the new system arrives and only do the job one time.

4. Installing the old system will cause some FISA downtime. Our original plans were to install the new system, have it tested and running, then move the people. This would eliminate any problems.

These points are just some of the highlights. We feel it would be beneficial to the Bureau to complete the system move in this manner. I know there are other issues which will need addressed. This is the most cost and time effective way we can see to complete the project. If I can be of any other help please let me know.

I have read many comments regarding your request. One comment mentions that all of the collection is forwarded to other facilities for translation, and there are no linguists currently available. If so, there are other sites that need immediate attention. Can this wait until January? Please let us know your decision.

Thnx,

The [redacted] RA has a portable RedWolf System that has suffered a recent death. [redacted] is no longer working and the TIU is down as well. This problem is identical to the problems the other system [redacted] encountered. [redacted]

At the present time the FISA is down at the [redacted] RA, but according to [redacted] personnel they are expecting the renewal to be signed very soon. The [redacted] personnel want to monitor the FISA down there since they are familiar with the equipment and more specifically the case. Is it possible to have another replacement unit shipped [redacted]

Thanks!

- 1 [redacted] for services
- 2 [redacted] for equipment (including [redacted])

I have included an attachment which discloses a requisition draft so that you can tell us exactly what you want to do. I am certain it is difficult for you to forecast LLS's needs, but TICTU needs to have a firm understanding of exactly that. Funding is to be paid primarily [redacted]. Please contact one of our contract specialists [redacted] if you have any questions about the form, and me for anything else. Thanks.

Wow. I missed most of this thread. It seems like lots was said but I'm not sure what was accomplished. Are we going to get the [redacted] equipment costs out of the [redacted] "service" dollars? That would be nice. Try to ensure I'm kept in the loop out here regarding cash flow because I have lots I need to do and it's all time sensitive and dollar driven. If I'm not aware of the money I have at my disposal I cannot effectively manage the remainder of the build out.

And, speaking of the build out, we are doing the final walkthrough with the builder today, so once that's done and our punch list items are handled we will start doing all the necessary work to get [redacted] up and running.

To answer your question, [redacted] is the phone company. They will not do any wiring to speak of [redacted] they will just put in [redacted] between the city [redacted] We cannot have [redacted] do their work and it would be a horrible waste of money to run this through [redacted] and pay their markup. Besides, we've already executed contracts so we just need to get on with it and get some more money transferred [redacted] so we can get it finished. As I said before, I have money [redacted] in the checking account. What I'm lacking is money for the phone switch, office furniture, rent, utilities and office equipment other than a shredder.

And, to further answer your question, [redacted] will improve the performance of RedWolf, as well as beefing up the [redacted] so the translators can access it, and all it's bells and whistles, more efficiently.

Please let me know if you have any other questions:

The funding does matter. There are times where equipment is purchased off of Service Purchase orders, but Service money is used to purchase services and equipment money to purchase equipment. If equipment needs to be purchased by a vendor that provides services, the money should be put on the PO as Equipment. Small equipment purchases are usually just overlooked. As for the the funding available, the [redacted] can be available to LSS if it is needed. They need to determine what costs are necessary to complete the buildout. Maybe we need to meet with [redacted] Let me know.

Remember that this is LSS money, so it is not a true case of EOSO or TICTU funding, but we are working together with you in a team effort. I intend the infrastructure build out to include the inside cabling and associated equipment cabinets, patch panels, etc., that [redacted] will install. It would not include the [redacted] upgrade, but the feasibility of doing that through [redacted] with the same funding source can also be looked at if you wish. As for Redwolf workstations and servers, those should be well within the scope of the task to which the money is applied. I guess it comes down to what funding remains.

If there is only one RW needed in the office, most RA's can support [redacted] and that can often be set up pretty quickly as long as [redacted] has at least a T-1 connectivity to the rest of the Bureau already.

I will leave it to [redacted] to say what "pretty quickly" means.

I can put him to work immediately without the RW system; once the RW system is installed, if it is to be installed, I can have audio sent to him right away. I would imagine that it would take quite some time to have one put in, though.

The DCS-5000, or Redwolf System, currently is the FBI's staple in providing a general collection system [Redacted] being provided to, and implemented in the field for authorized FISA collection. As telecommunications technology continues to evolve and emerge, so must our ability to meet the challenges in collecting those impacted communications. OTD is continually evaluating its' collection systems and strategies used to meet the demanding pace of change in the commercial communications world.

The DCS-5000's overall requirement is ever-evolving. With new technologies come new strategies [Redacted]

[Redacted]

b7E

In short, while I myself as a manager, would like to be able to articulate a final requirement or standard of expectations for the DCS-5000, the operational necessity of the system dictates that its structure and capability remains fluid to meet the investigatory and intelligence gathering demands that our organization places upon it. Eventually, like all other collection technologies before it, the DCS-5000 platform will be retired and replaced. Until its lifecycle is realized though, we have to keep it up to date with new trends and functional capabilities.

I hope this helps.

Thanks very much - it is nice to see that additional capability is being added.

Is there an "end" game in all of this - that is - has OTD determined what the overall DCS-5000 requirement is?

As to a POC for [Redacted] OTD asks that any established procedures --to include for the [Redacted] matter--include submitting an email to be followed with a formal EC request sent to the attention of the responsible OTD Unit Chief, which for [Redacted] is [Redacted]. I would posit that a similar approach should be used for RedWolf--to the attention of the cognizant Unit Chief, which is [Redacted].

Subject: Applying Secret Stickers to RedWolf Equipt at Installs

UNCLASSIFIED
NON-RECORD

Gang,

While visiting [redacted] last week, I noticed that there weren't any "SECRET" stickers applied to any of the RedWolf equipt. That would include the [redacted] and the DCS-5000 [redacted]. Also, there is a need to install [redacted] b2
b7E

Issue: In order to comply with Security Policies, we need to adhere "Secret" and "Unclassified" stickers as needed. Either ERF reps at RedWolf installs, or Raytheon should ensure that the Stickers are applied per Security Guidelines. What do y'all think? Thnx.

That's All Folks,
-ca

It was under our impression from discussions with the [redacted] engineers that [redacted] [redacted]

b2

[redacted] would be the most cost effective and simple solution for [redacted] b2

 [redacted] Another ERF Engineer, [redacted] is looking at the [redacted] for a b7E solution to [redacted] into the Redwolf and provide a solution for [redacted] [redacted] engineers informed us that [redacted] was the best solution for [redacted]

This request for the [redacted] items is to allow us to begin to evaluate [redacted] From this, b2 we can determine what [redacted] will/won't support and return our recommendations for better support b6 and integration. We have to get the systems first to be able to perform this evaluation. These [redacted] b7C items, in our view based upon our exposure at [redacted] during training, would provide a quick way b7E to get started on evaluation for future use. We already have other changes that we would like to have designed into the Redwolf but knew it would require major engineering changes/development b2
 by [redacted] These items would be discussed at a later time with [redacted] and other engineers b7E on [redacted]

We do agree that there may and will be problems with [redacted] but we will find them b2 through our testing. Again it was our understanding that [redacted] would be supported by [redacted] b6
 [redacted]

[redacted] is not left out. Right now, we need to see what [redacted] will/won't do so that we can b2 come to the table with engineering changes. During this same time [redacted] can define the b6 wideband requirements of her systems. But this would be major engineering design changes/effort b7C on [redacted] part. b7E
